Swift TV Secures Google Certification for Enterprise Connected TV Platform

Key highlights

- Google certification completed following multi-year platform development and compliance program
- Validates Swift TV's proprietary enterprise platform within Google's certified ecosystem
- Product delivered via Google-certified hardware from an authorised manufacturing partner
- Certification supports deployments already underway across mining, aged care and hospitality sectors
- Further strengthens barriers to entry and competitive positioning within enterprise accommodation markets
- Supports future access to evolving Google TV and AI capabilities

Swift TV Ltd ((ASX: STV), "Swift" or "the Company") is pleased to announce that its flagship enterprise connected TV platform, Swift TV, has achieved certification from Google, completing a multi-year integration and compliance program supporting commercial deployment at scale.

The certification process involved extensive testing of platform performance, security, stability and user experience standards required for deployment within Google's certified ecosystem.

Swift TV is delivered through Google-certified hardware manufactured by an authorised partner, with certification validating the integrated enterprise platform deployed across customer sites.

Swift TV is already being deployed across major accommodation environments, including Chevron workforce accommodation sites, multiple aged care facilities including sites operated by Australia's largest aged care provider, and the recently announced Daydream Island Resort agreement.

The certification strengthens Swift TV's competitive positioning by combining proprietary enterprise communications, engagement and operational functionality with the scalability and application ecosystem associated with Google TV and Android.

Google certification is also expected to support enterprise procurement and deployment activities and reduce customer technology adoption risk by providing assurance around platform quality, compatibility and long-term software support.

The Company believes this further differentiates Swift TV within hospitality, aged care and workforce accommodation markets where operators increasingly seek a single platform capable of delivering consumer entertainment, communications, engagement and operational functionality.

Integration within Google's ecosystem provides a pathway to leverage future Google TV platform enhancements, including emerging AI-enabled capabilities, which may further enhance Swift TV's proprietary enterprise functionality over time.

The completion of certification removes a key technology validation milestone as Swift transitions from product development into commercial rollout and recurring revenue growth.

Swift TV Managing Director and CEO, Brian Mangano. said:

"This milestone further strengthens Swift TV's ability to scale across multiple accommodation sectors with a globally recognised technology platform underpinning our proprietary enterprise capabilities.

"Importantly, certification provides further third-party validation of the platform and supports our ability to scale deployments across multiple accommodation sectors.

"We believe the combination of Google-certified technology and Swift TV's enterprise functionality positions the Company strongly as operators increasingly seek modern, connected and future-ready accommodation experiences."
